“Power of evaluation: Influencing decision making for a better and more equal world”

Conference streams

Power of evaluation for a better and more equal world

- This stream aims to bring together thought evaluation leaders, decision and policymakers, and evaluators from different backgrounds and regions to initiate a global discussion on the future of evaluation. The dialogue will be guided by key questions related to: the power of evaluation to influence decision making for a better and more equal world; the potential contribution of evaluation to peace; the challenges and opportunities evaluation faces to remain relevant and useful; how evaluation itself be transformational?

Partnerships for sustainable development

- This stream will focus on the power of partnerships to advance evaluation for sustainable development in general, and transformational evaluation in particular, at the country, regional and global levels. Partnerships experiences and good practices to be showcased within this stream.

The future of Evaluation: A perspective from Young and Emerging Evaluators

- This stream will include challenges and opportunities for professionalizing evaluation in a highly turbulent world; positioning the profession in national, regional and global contexts; role of Young and Emerging Evaluators (YEE) in advancing and professionalizing evaluation; in promoting innovation and others.

Evaluation within national ecosystems

- This stream will include a dialogue based upon experiences from contexts where evaluation is situated within national frameworks and agendas; or backed by legislation or evaluation policies. Cases of national coordinated and coherent work of Governments, VOPEs, parliamentarians and other stakeholders to be included in this stream.

Gender and equity responsive evaluation for better evidence and policies

- This stream intends to promote a discussion on the importance of gender, intersectionality and equity responsive evaluation for Leaving No One Behind. Global, regional or national experiences on how credible evidence have contributed to advocate for more gender transformative and/or more equitable public policies will be welcomed in this stream.
